TO THE BREEZE

Was Swung the National Emblem by the Railroaders of

PANHANDLE AND OHIO RIVER

ROADS ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON AMID NOTABLE ENTHUSIASM AND TO THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF AN ELOQUENT AND PATRIOTIC ADDRESS BY MR. JAMES V. BRADEN, FREIGHT AGENT OF THE COMPANIES. RESOLUTIONS WERE ADOPTED.

It was an enthusiastic crowd that gathered on Saturday afternoon at the freight station of the Pan-Handle and Ohio River railroads, at the foot of Fourteenth street, to participate in the ceremonies of swinging to the breeze as large and as handsome a specimen of the Stars and Stripes as has been sent up since the war resulted in the magnificent burst of patriotic fervor which has united the nation and astounded the powers of Europe.

It was expected that Superintendent Peck and Chief Engineer Johnston would be present to deliver addresses, but they were unable to come down from Pittsburgh, and the principal address was for that reason made by Mr. James V. Braden, freight agent of the companies. Mr. Braden made an eloquent speech, full of the patriotism that is confidently expected from any American citizen in these days of triumph and glorious achievement. Said Mr. Braden in effect:

Fellow-Employees and Fellow Citizens:—Although making no pretense at ceremonies in raising the starry emblem to float over us, I had hoped others connected with our companies might have spoken a few words to us fitting the occasion, but as they could not be with us, without any attempt at oratory, there are a few points which occur to me should claim our attention.

"There stands in the city of Philadelphia on Arch street near Third, a one and a half story house, in which Betty Ross made the first flag for the American government, and once a year the patriotic people of that city celebrate 'flag day,' and on that day the school children are admitted into and allowed to pass through that house. Why? To perpetuate the principles which that emblem represents. It is to this end and as a result of that education that you see so many flags flying in this land, and that we, the joint employees of the Pan-Handle and Ohio River railroads at this station, are to-day flying to the breeze this beautiful specimen of our grand old flag.

"As we look upon its stars and stripes we not only admire the wisdom of its designers, but imagine their perplexity in providing a combination of colors to so fully symbolize the principles it was to represent. The designers said it was to represent Liberty, liberty of thought, act and speech, liberty from religious bigotry and the intolerance of monarchs, liberty to worship God according to the dictates of conscience, to make and administer law, and exercise the rights guaranteed to American citizenship. We are not, however, to mistake liberty for license. We have not the liberty to interfere with the rights of others, their personal rights or rights of property. We should not make the mistake that a fresh arrival from Ireland did a few years ago, who stole some clothing from a fellow emigrant and on arrival at Pittsburgh was arrested and sent to the workhouse for ninety days, and on being released said he was going 'strate back to ould Ireland.' Blarney such a frae kentry as this wan is." Let us carefully distinguish between liberty and license.

"As we gaze upon the starry folds we are reminded of our several duties as American citizens to our country, our families, ourselves and greatest of all, to our Creator. I believe in no other nation is love of country more intense than in this. This was forcibly demonstrated in our late war with Spain, when there was not room in our fighting forces for but a small percentage of men who were willing and anxious to bear arms in our country's cause. This fact is one of pride to Americans and great surprise to other nations. As this is known as a nation of homes, no true American citizen will neglect his home. Show me a man who loves his home and retires to it when his business is done for the day and I will as often show you an example of good citizenship.

"As we of America by His goodness and mercy have been so bountifully provided for, have been made to prosper and as a nation have been made so happy and great, surely no good American can afford to neglect to pay due reverence to our Creator, our Provider and our Ruler.

"Again as we admire the beauty of our banner, we are reminded by the blue field of our fidelity to the principles it teaches in time of war as represented by the red as well as in peace as by the white.

"As our fidelity has been shown so clearly during the last three and a half months of war with Spain in defense of down-trodden humanity, in which thousands of people have been released from the power of their oppressors and made free to grow and prosper, as we did after throwing off the yoke, so let us be as faithful and true now that peace has been declared, and bend our energies anew to the advancement and prosperity of our beloved country. Let us as employees of the Pan-Handle and Ohio River railroads resolve to render still better service to a deserving public than ever before, and thus serve our employers better, and my word for it we will surely thus serve best our own interests by making our services indispensable. As the physical condition of our roads has so greatly improved in the last two decades, solid road beds, heavy rails and equipment and more ponderous locomotives, so has the operative undergone still greater improvements. The standard of their character has been so raised that it has become an honor to be so employed and such employment is of itself a good recommendation as to character. I am proud to belong to a profession which is confined to men so noble, brave and true.

"Let us keep pace with the march of progress and in the future as in the past be ever faithful to the pure principles perpetuated by that grand old flag, the glory of the greatest nation on God's green earth."

At the conclusion of Mr. Braden's speech, he was enthusiastically applauded, and the meeting reached its climax when the speaker called for three cheers for the flag and country. These were given with a will.

The following resolutions were then introduced and passed without opposition:

Resolved, That we, the joint employees of the Pan-Handle and Ohio River railroads, do hereby express a vote of thanks to Mr. G. L. Peck, superintendent, Mr. W. C. Cushing, engineer, and W. L. Simpkins, foreman of the P. C. C. & St. L. railway, for the handsome flag pole used on this occasion; also to Mr. Frank B. Hall, manager of construction of the C. D. & P. Telephone Company, and his able assistants, for raising the pole, and the board of public works for use of the ground on which it is erected. May these gentlemen continue prosperous and happy, encircled as they are within the folds of that flag, the banner of the greatest nation on earth.

The small balance in the flag fund, about $5, was, on motion, donated to the Red Cross Society.

THE FIGHT AT SANTIAGO.

Valor of American Troops Manifested on Many Bloody Fields.

The battles around Santiago, leading principally to the siege and capitulation of the city, have served again to demonstrate the valor, persistence and sagacity of the American soldier, and to prove that in fighting qualities our troops are the best in the world. Our country may depend upon the volunteers whose loyalty and brown, and bravery, and willingness to dare and do constitute a wall of strength that no power of opposing nations can throw down, while intelligence, mercy and full appreciation of liberty make them invincible in war, and watchful, zealous and home-loving in peace. Our conflict with Spain has taught the younger generation especially the importance of studying our country's history, which will be found as interesting and heroic as that of Rome or Greece or England. A most effective aid to this duty may be found in "Our Nation in War," a portfolio of extraordinary value which the Intelligencer is now distributing. This truly remarkable publication, 13½ inches in size, is issued in parts of sixteen pages each, and is devoted to illustrating and briefly describing the greatest battles by land and sea, and the most astounding feats of heroism performed by our gallant soldiery in all the wars since that of 1776, including, of course, that with Spain. Advertisement elsewhere explains the plan of distribution.

HIS FAREWELL SERMON

Preached Last Night at St. Andrew's Mission by Rev. L. H. Young.

Rev. Lee H. Young last night preached his farewell sermon to the congregation of St. Andrew's P. E. mission, on the South Side, he having accepted a call to a charge in Nebraska, in the diocese of the Platte. A large congregation heard the farewell words, and joined in wishing him god-speed.

In addition to St. Andrew's Mission, Rev. Mr. Young was rector of St. Paul's church, Elm Grove, and his work in both congregations was distinguished by earnest and constant endeavor. Rev. Mr. Young is possessed of rare scholarly attainments, and as in Wheeling, he will crown his efforts in his new field. Under him St. Andrew's Mission has grown and prospered.

When Rev. Mr. Young leaves Wheeling, it will be with Mrs. Young, for on next Wednesday evening, he will unite in marriage to Miss Jessie Hornbrook, of Elm Grove, daughter of Mr. H. H. Hornbrook, manager of the Top mill. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents.

A VERDICT OF LARCENY.

The jury in the Reynolds case came in Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock with its verdict, which was that F. W. Reynolds was guilty of the larceny of an item of $19, as alleged in the indictment. The verdict was a surprise to the state, which confidently expected an embezzlement verdict. When the jury retired a ballot on guilty or not guilty was taken, and resulted in seven votes for acquittal and five for conviction. After four hours' work the jury arrived at the verdict mentioned above. Judge Hugus has not sentenced Reynolds.

Results of Mistle.

Whenever a ruler or governor violates his trust, oversteps his authority and usurps the rights and property of his subjects, he is certain to bring about a revolt against these unworthy practices. Men will not stand oppressive taxation or abridgement of their liberties, and if the abuses which bring about revolt are not speedily removed a general upheaval will result in the complete overthrow of the government and the dissolution of the state.

Nearly every man and woman in the world is a ruler, with important matters to look after and vast interests to protect. We are each given a chance to rule our own bodies. Every time we overtax our bodies there is a revolt which manifests its presence in headache, neuralgia, loss of appetite, nervous prostration. The best means of again gaining control of the rebellious body is by soothing the irritated nerves and quieting the unrest in both body and brain with Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. It is the best brain and nerve tonic ever compounded, for it builds up the wasted tissues; while it rests it strengthens while it quiets.

"A sudden pain in my left arm and side notified me that my nerves and muscles had rebelled. I thought it would soon wear off, but it became worse and nervous prostration followed. I trembled constantly while lying in bed, and only after I obtained Dr. Miles' Nerve Tonic did I find relief." "A. KANOUSE, Cripple Creek, Col."
